

Primary Partners Alliance Demonstrates Nearly $70 Lower PMPM Healthcare Costs Using Lightbeam Health Solutions

Analysis highlights lower costs and utilization, fewer readmissions and higher HCC recapture through an integrated population health strategy

DALLAS – October 7, 2026 – Lightbeam Health Solutions, a proven AI-enabled solutions and services leader helping healthcare organizations succeed in value-based care, today announced results from Primary Partners Alliance \(PPA\) population health strategy, which leverages Lightbeam's platform to identify patient risk and care gaps, prioritize outreach, and support more coordinated care.

A one-year analysis of PPA's Medicare Shared Savings Program (MSSP) and ACO REACH population found that patients that PPA successfully identified, engaged, and supported through a completion of an Annual Wellness Visit (AWV) consistently demonstrated better outcomes than those who did not complete an AWV. The findings reinforce PPA's approach of using AWVs as an entry point to ongoing patient engagement and care management.

Key findings included:

- Nearly $70 lower healthcare costs PMPM ($947 vs. $1,014)
- 44% lower readmission rates (9% vs. 16%)
- Lower emergency department utilization (272/K vs. 286/K)
- Higher HCC recapture (70% vs. 57%)

PPA uses Lightbeam to support patient identification, population health analytics, outreach, and performance visibility, helping care teams identify risk, close care gaps, strengthen documentation, and connect patients with appropriate support. Alliance for Community Health, a nonprofit organization, also plays an important role in PPA's strategy by assisting with population health management.

"Our goal is to give independent practices the visibility and support they need to succeed in value-based care while keeping the focus where it belongs—on the patient," said Lisa Bloder, Executive Director of Population Health at Primary Partners of Florida. "When our providers have a clearer picture of their patients and the support to act on that information, they can focus more of their time on delivering high-quality care while building practices that can succeed for the long term."

For PPA's network of 251 providers, this initiative directly advances Primary Partners' mission of making comprehensive, coordinated primary care more accessible. It empowers independent practices to thrive in value-based care by providing greater transparency, actionable insights, and the resources needed to remain strong, sustainable, and independent while delivering high-quality patient care.

“PPA demonstrates what’s possible when organizations turn population health insights into meaningful action,” said Melissa Tyler, Vice President of Advisory Services at Lightbeam Health Solutions. “Lower costs, fewer readmissions, reduced emergency department utilization, and stronger HCC recapture reflect the kind of performance value-based care organizations are working toward. PPA’s results show the impact of building a population health strategy that extends beyond a single patient encounter and supports continuous improvement across the organization.”

About Primary Partners Alliance

Primary Partners Alliance (PPA) is a physician-owned and physician-governed healthcare organization dedicated to strengthening independent medical practices and improving patient health, affordability and accessibility of care. Through its integrated ACO, IPA, CIN and management services capabilities, PPA brings together more than 900 independent primary care physicians and specialists across 34 counties in Central Florida, representing approximately 750,000 patients.

PPA provides independent practices with the technology, actionable data, care-management resources, contracting infrastructure and administrative support needed to succeed in both value-based and traditional healthcare. By connecting high-performing independent physicians with health plans and other healthcare partners, PPA works to improve quality, coordinate care, reduce unnecessary healthcare costs and preserve patients’ access to independent community-based physicians.

PPA’s physician-led model has consistently demonstrated high levels of quality and cost-effective care while allowing participating physicians to maintain their clinical and practice independence. PPA serves as a collective voice for independent physicians and their patients and is committed to its mission of Better Health, Care Affordability and Accessing the Revenues Necessary to Do So.
